Editor and Member of Guard Asserts Outbreak Was Due Primarily to Fact That Sense of Discipline Was Not Instilled Into Guardsmen at Kawailoa Camp-Says, Filipinos Are in Guard Because They Were Urged to Enlist

Failure by the commissary department to provide food for the Filipinos and lack of discipline after several days of laxity in camp at Kawailoa, are given as the two main causes of insubordination yesterday afternoon by Filipinos of the national guard embarking for Kauai.

Pedro M. Esqueras, assistant editor of the Filipino newspaper Ang Abyan, and himself a member of the national guard, told the Star-Bulletin today that it is grossly unfair to blame the Filipinos for what occurred yesterday at the steamer Kilauea when several hundred left the steamer and, disregarding orders from their officers, went uptown in search of

The lei sellers did a land office business and some of the legislators almost staggered under the burden of flowers and wreaths placed about their necks by Honolulu friends. The congressmen and senators were kept busy during the half-hour prior to sailing time shaking hands with the numerous friends they had made during their brief visit.

It was not until the two sharp blasts of the whistle warned them to get aboard that they hurried forward to the gangplank. Here Governor Lucius E. Pinkham, representatives of the territorial, civic and county governments and officers of the army and navy were on hand for a final handshake and well wishes. And when the last member had hesitatingly clambered up the steep gangplank and the band broke into the fond farewell song
